NEXT NURSING CLASS MONDAY

The next meeting of the free nursing class will be held at the high school auditorium on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock promptly. On arrival at the high school on Monday evening, each person—man or woman—will be given a blank card on which to write their name, street address, telephone number. This card will be punched for each meeting attended. This takes the place of the cumbersome roll call. In addition all persons are asked to state on the card if they would be willing, in case of an epidemic, to give assistance in nursing their neighbors. At the close of the course the cards will be taken up; those persons having attended 75% of the lectures will have their names published in the newspapers, and the entire card collection will be kept as a card index of the people of Kingston who have received such an amount of training in first aid as this course provides. Again all persons who own clinical thermometers are asked to bring them to the class Monday night. On Monday evening there will be a special talk by one of the city physicians, and also a practical demonstration in which those attending the classes will participate.

BUCKET SHOP PLAGUE IN N. Y.

Stock Exchange Warns Its Members to Keep Clear After Thousands of Investors Have Been Caught and Law Officers Get Busy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 11.—State and county officers and officials of the New York Stock Exchange today announced that they had begun a fight to the finish to save the investments of thousands of men and women in every state in the union who entrusted their funds to members of the Wall Street "bucket shop ring" within the past few weeks.

Twenty-five brokerage firms, the majority of them members of the ring, went to the wall within the last two months, after being caught in the rising market. It is estimated that the total liabilities of these shops will be more than $25,000,000, and only one of that number is expected to pay as much as fifty cents on the dollar to its creditors. Customers of the majority of the other shops will lose their all—in some cases that represents the savings of a life time.

The grand jury, now in session, is expected to return indictments against several firms that have been very active in soliciting business by mail and the long distance telephone from investors in every city in the country.

The "bucket shop ring" has become so brazen that Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the New York Stock Exchange, has issued a warning to all members that bucketing operations will not be tolerated.

This morning Jacob E. Hinkleman of No. 208 LaPort avenue, Syracuse, appeared at the office of District Attorney Traver with letters from the Syracuse authorities who had been searching for Mr. Hinkleman's stolen car. ANIMAL WAYS

Now I wanted to see the Ant-Eater. I sent word that I was going to see him, and the keeper told me when I arrived, that the Ant-Eater was ready to see his caller.

He had been expecting me, and so had not gone out, which was very polite of the Ant-Eater, now, wasn't it?

He has a very long snout—very, very long and thin. His mouth is no more than a tiny, narrow slit, and when he is in his South American home he eats only ants. In the zoo he eats chopped meat and eggs and also licks up milk with his long thin tongue.

And now I shall translate for you his talk—which the keeper helped me to translate:

"When I'm free," the Ant-Eater said, "my two and four are all important. First of all I free the country of many naughty ants. I enjoy the good work I do. Many do enjoy work, you know—the Ant-Eater is among them. With my bushy tail I sweep up the ants and get them together in large numbers."

"But that is not the only way my tail is useful. I use it in the hot summer time to fan myself with and to keep off the flies that might come to have a chat on my back."

"You know, flies don't care where they stop for a talk—or a rest—it might be on a person's forehead. It makes no difference to them!"

"And my tail can also be used as an umbrella. I can take a nap and cover myself up with my tail and not bother to get up for a little shower and go in my house."

"My tail keeps the rain off my body and I shake it off my tail when I awaken."

"If you're going to talk about your two important ends," said a strange looking lizard, "you should think of me. For I am more important at either end and at both ends than you ever dreamed of being."

"My name is the Stumped-Tailed or Two-Headed or Shingle-Back Lizard. Three names have I and two heads, and that is as much as any creature should ask for or receive!"

"My back does look like a shingle roof with the shingles laid over each other—you know what I mean. But most important is the fact that I have two heads. By each I have a pair of little legs, and they're made just alike."

"I am from Australia, you know. If you don't know it, you do now. This is the most interesting thing of all. I can travel either way—yes, I can go in either direction, forward or backward, and whenever I want to change my mind I don't have to turn around—I just start going backwards, which at once becomes forward for me!"

"And here," said the Two-Headed Lizard, "is my little brother."

There, sure enough, was another just like him, and when the keeper took them both up in his hands, each with two heads turned toward me, I didn't know whether I was looking at four animals or two.

But then I had to hurry over to see Mrs. Lemur Monkey from Madagascar, and her young twins. There they were curled around her back, which is the way monkeys, both big and small, carry their babies when they are climbing in their tree homes or even in the zoo.

All mother monkeys are very, very devoted to their young, and little Mother Lemur was certainly no exception. The children were sleepy little fuzzy dears, and Mother Lemur had no time for me. So I listened to her as she talked to them in her sweet, little quivering voice, and later on I heard a strange kind of monkey-singing. It was Mother Lemur singing a tree-cradle song to her babies as she held them in her loving monkey arms.

As far as I could make it out, this was her song:

Little ones, little ones, I love you so,
I'll keep you safe from every foe,
I'll watch you and guard you, you need have no fears,
For I'll never let harm touch my precious dears.

My darlings, my darlings, I love you so dearly,
But no lullaby song can describe my love,
But you can feel how I love you and that tells you more,
Than if I should sing these words over and over.

Ah, little ones, little ones, I love you so,
I'll keep you safe from every foe!

And the twins snuggled closer and went sound to sleep!

Now, blessings light on him that first invented this same soap! It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak. It is meant for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold, and cold for the hot. It is current coin that purchases all the pleasures of the world cheap, and the balance that sets the king and the shepherd, the fool and the wise man, even—Cervantes.

MORE GOOD THINGS

For those who are fond of fish the tuna will be an especial favorite.

Tuna Leaf.—Take one large can of tuna fish, flake with a fork and remove all bones and skin. Add one cupful of bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of chopped green pepper, two eggs, paprika and one teaspoonful of salt. Mix all the ingredients together, roll in the form of a firm loaf, roll in flour and place in a greased bread pan. Dot with bits of butter and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve unmolded on a hot platter with:

Sauce for Tuna Leaf.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and mix well, add slowly one cupful of milk, stirring constantly, and cook two minutes. Remove from the fire and add one egg yolk well beaten. Season with salt and pour around the fish loaf.

Apple Ice.—Cut up six large tart apples and boil with four cupfuls of water the rind of one lemon until soft. Drain, add two cupfuls of sugar and boil for three minutes. Add the juice of two lemons and the juice of an orange and freeze.

Peanut Cookies.—Cream one-half cupful of butter and one cupful of brown sugar together; add two eggs, one at a time, beat well, add one cupful of honey and one teaspoonful of vanilla extract; then add one cupful of chopped peanut meats, one-fourth of a cupful of milk and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add a teaspoonful of baking powder to one cupful of flour, adding more flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Chill, roll out and cut in diamond shapes. Bake on greased tin in a brisk oven. These cookies are better when they are kept a few days.

Lamb fat is good for warming over beans.

AS COMET SWINGS ITS TAIL

Speed Records of Celestial Bodies Are All Broken When They Turn Around the Sun.

One of the most remarkable things about comets is the presence of a tail. Not that all have them. Many possess such appendages, and some make marvelous displays. However, the tail appears to be a transient affair somehow due to the comet's proximity to the sun. A periodic comet which displays a magnificent tail at one apparition may show little or nothing of this character upon another occasion.

As a typical comet swings swiftly round the sun, the tail seems to swing around as well. Always it stretches from the comet in a direction away from the sun. As the tail may be many millions of miles in length, an explanation is needed to cover the question as to how it is possible in a few days to swing the tail through an arc of 180 degrees. Some comets are extraordinarily rapid movers as they round the sun. Thus, the periodic comet of 1843 reached, in its swing round, the wonderful velocity of 300 miles per second. However, it is more particularly the rapid angular swing of the tail that needs explanation. If the tail is precisely the same object throughout, a 72-hour swing of a hundred million miles of tail through two right angles would mean that the terminal particles covered an arc considerably over 150,000,000 miles long at the rate of some 800 miles per second.—Scientific American.

Cold Reception.
"I have some lines addressed to D'Annunzio," said the timorous visitor. "Well, he isn't here," muttered the hard-hearted editor. "The last time I heard of 'Gabe' he was getting his mail at Piume, but I understand he is going to leave and I don't know where he wants it forwarded."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Reliance satisfies that coffee appetite

Reliance Coffee has that rich heavy breakfasty-odor that makes you hungry the moment you sniff it. A smell that pours right out into the cup as taste!

No other coffee satisfies your coffee appetite so completely because Reliance really tastes as good as it smells.

Have your grocer bring you a trial pound; then make it this way:

One heaping tablespoonful for each cup and one for the pot. Have the pot hot. Put the dry coffee in the bottom of the pot and pour on actual boiling water. Set on stove and let come to a boil for two minutes. Remove and stir in the top grounds. Just before serving add two tablespoonful of cold water. Serve promptly.

Reliance Coffee is sold only in sealed oval canisters, bearing our name, 'Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.'

Saturday Health Talk No. 61
By Froude & MacKinnon

The only difference between success and failure oftentimes is a matter of health. The big men of today did not reach their present success through luck or chance. They are where they are because first of all they had health, and second, because they paid the price in hard work, hard thought, an "dogged persistence. But health was the foundation.

Uncle Ben says: "Buying white noise, Newy, is like getting nothing. You never know whether you got the wrong kind until it is too late."

The body is a living machine. It is a jointed contraption of bones, muscles and ligaments, animated by mental impulses which travel the nerves by way of the spinal column. This spinal column is made up of 24 movable joints and between the joints are the spinal nerve exits. Disorder of any one or more joints cause pressure on spinal nerves and disease is the result. Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

Thoughtful attention should be given to the fact, particularly at the present time, that prudent spending is as much a part of our life as careful saving.

One of the economic ills of the present time is the general retrenchment by the public which has come as a reaction from the waste, extravagance and over-speculation which immediately followed the war.

There is a vast difference between hoarding and constructive thrift. We must thrive. We must make progress. We must move forward.

And these things cannot be accomplished unless there is intelligent spending by the public as well as intelligent saving.

The man who makes an expenditure for the construction of a home for example, is of more constructive value to society than he who merely hoards a similar sum.

Saving is just one of the links in the chain of thrift. It is one of the most important ones, but within itself has not the value and utility which it gains when linked with prudent spending.

We are sure no one will accept these words as a depreciation of the sturdy virtue of saving, but at this time when there is so much unemployment in the country and when many lines of trade are not getting the volume of business that they should be normally enjoying, it is important that we keep in mind the fact that the intelligent and constructive expenditure of money is necessary to the right needs of business and to the general progress of the nation.

To spend money wastefully would not accomplish any substantial good. Waste is an economic sin. But to spend money in ways that are not wasteful and that will mean more widespread employment in the trades and industries of the country is a very commendable action at this time.

Let us understand that it is no heresy to the doctrine of thrift to spend money with prudence and intelligence. For without these, progress would cease.

What was first thought to be an overturned boat, but was really a turtle almost 500 years old and of giant proportions, is now on exhibition at St. John's Casino, at Miami, Fla. Mrs. M. Miller, a winter vacationist, is shown here using the turtle as a pedestal on which to pose prettily for the photographer. It required the combined efforts of four men to bring the turtle onto the beach.

OFFICE CAT

By Jander

Joe the Plodder says some people are so absent minded that even their confidence is misplaced.

Chicago council votes 61 to 6 in favor of booze. When the millennium does come, it probably won't select Chicago for headquarters.

There never an elephant that didn't look as though he ought to have his pants pressed.

Spoiled children come home to roost.—Leavenworth Post.
Yeah, about 2 o'clock in the morning.

As long as hair restoratives are sold the gentlemen who have oil stock should not despair.

No woman likes a husband who dirties—unless he's some other woman's husband.

Once upon a time there lived a chorus girl who didn't care for an automobile. She wanted two or nothing.

The Mighty Dollar.

You may talk about the teacher, teaching just for fame.
Or the minister a preaching just for reputation's name.

The teacher would be absent and the pupil lose its scholar.
If at any time or place you should take away their dollar.

You may talk about the farmer, farming just for health.
Or the merchant selling goods if it adds not to his wealth.

The merchant would be stranded and the farmer he would holler.
If by any means you should take away their dollar.

Search the earth, its seas and air and all the land upon it
You cannot find a single thing that doesn't stand upon it.

The miser, too, I most forgot, would rise up in his choler
You'd hear that eagle squeal a mile if you should take his dollar.

There is just as much common sense as rhyme in the following lines which have been published in several newspapers but whose authorship seems to be unknown:

Hordes of autos
We should build
Our roads to stay.
And, departing,
Leave behind us
Kinds that ruin
Don't wash away.

When our children
Pay the mortgage
Father made
To haul the load.
They'll not have to Ask the question:
Here's the land,
But where's the road?"

Unique Barometer.

The natives of southern Chile have a barometer in the form of a crab shell. The dead shell is white in fair, dry weather, but shows small red spots when the atmosphere shows moisture.

Miss Frances Birkhead, former secretary-stenographer of Lee M. Russell, of Mississippi, who has brought suit in the United States Federal Court for $100,000 damages against the Governor, charging that he betrayed her. She says he ruined her life and later, with friends, threatened to put her in an insane asylum. The Governor denies the charges and says that it is part of a political plot against him.

A Vote of Confidence

We are pleased to announce that our customers have subscribed for the entire offering of $300,000 of the Company's bonds.

In our published notices and advertisements we have tried to show the relation that we believe should exist between the Community and the Company. We stated our case publicly and asked for the confidence of the Community. The response has been prompt and generous; not alone through the purchase of the $300,000 of Bonds by over five hundred of our customers who had funds to invest at this time, but also through the Good Will expressed by the many users of Gas and Electricity.

Our entire organization will take pride in giving its best efforts to merit the Confidence thus expressed. It is only with your help that we can accomplish what we have set out to do. That is, to make this Company A PUBLIC UTILITY WHICH WILL PROMOTE THE COMFORT, HEALTH, SAFETY AND WEALTH OF THE COMMUNITY.

The Bonds are being prepared and will be ready for delivery at an early date. Proper announcement will be made later to purchasers.

MUST WATCH THE MODES OF PARIS

Keen Eye Should Be Kept on the French Styles, Prominent Fashion Writer Says.

RESTAURANT FROCK IS GRAND

Garment Simpler Than Simplest Day-time Dress—Has Distinction of Cut and Line Which Marks It for Leader.

Real expression of Paris is found in the restaurant frock. And this is the time of year when designers over there are bending the best of their efforts to create dresses of such character. Then, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times, while we in America do not go in for the restaurant frock as such, still we have a distinct predisposition to a dress of this type, and it is from those models for Parisian restaurant life that we take many of the ideas which carry us into more particularized American creations. The dresses, in fact, which are being worn now in Paris are those it behooves us to watch from this side of the Atlantic, if we wish to be anywhere in touch with fashions as they proceed along their varied ways.

But the restaurant dresses that are new just now are the loveliest. It seems, which have ever been made. They are simpler even than the simplest of day-time frocks, but they have that distinction of cut and line and fabric which marks them for leaders in their own generation. Most of the draping has disappeared; uneven hems, except those very much restrained, are taboo, and altogether the best of the fresher dresses of this sort have resolved themselves into quite classic affairs.

Quite interesting are the newest of the dresses from three of the leading Parisian couturiers. They are Jenny, Poiret and Premet, each of whom is entitled to a distinct command for fashion as it exists and shall exist. All the waistlines are as long as is consistent with a picturesque effect. The material is the only real consideration about the gowns, and, while the skirts are long, they are not unduly so, to instigate a riot in the camp of those who hate to see the skirts of dresses drop too far.

Sparkles With Brilliance.
Jenny's dress is made of black crepe. The French call it "crepe morocain noir." It is then trimmed with the slightest tracery of beads in silver and gray. It might, upon this description, be called dull, but only by one who did not know the art of a French designer. Those clever ones—and especially Jenny—can make black and gray and silver shine until they glow with color, and that with only the merest bit of a pattern of trimming with which to create a contrast.

The bodice of this frock is typical of so many of the newer waists. It is just a trifle longer than the normal waistline and manages to give that thing which adds a totally novel character to the gowns of this season. Many of these dresses are made without any trimming whatever and most of them are in black. They are the simplest of all, beyond any doubt. But here have been seen frocks made in the most brilliant of colored crepes and velvets, which have held their place along with the general throng in a quite remarkable way.

Colors Much More in Vogue.
The later news from Paris says that colors are much more in vogue than they have been in the recent past. But in New York, wherever well-dressed women are gathered together, there is a surprising preponderance of black.

Creation in Ivory and Metal Brocade.

During the last few weeks one has noted some exception to this general rule in the way of all-white frocks seen on many of the younger girls of the theater and dances. But, as a rule, these frocks are made along plain and simple lines, just as their black sisters, and they take the tone of their general effect from their harmony with the personality of the wearer.

Often a white dress on a very accentuated brunet type will create the most vividly colorful effect. And again the all-black costume on a girl whose hair and complexion are a light blonde are the things which make every beholder sit up and take particular notice. Premet's gown is made from a combination of black satin and a vivid blue chiffon, upon which foundation are sewn black jet cabochons in a regularity of pattern which is most charming.

Again the waistline is long, without being too unwieldy in its general proportions, and again the design and construction of the frock are so simple that they seem to defy competition in that particular direction. The black satin is so arranged that it seems to make the foundation gown, but nothing of that sort has really happened. The two materials are so blended that, between them, they make a pattern and a clever combination that seems destined to make the gown which shall be the most successful of the season.

From this gown it will be seen that no particular accent has been put upon the waistline. At that point a simple fold of the material has been the sole claimant to distinction, and it has succeeded in preserving the straight line of the gown with perfect effect.

Draping Is Interesting.

The draping of strings of jet jewels is the interesting feature trimming of this gown of Premet's. Against the lighter color they are always posed, and they are allowed to swing in loose, long lines, contributing their effect to the general gathering-together of lines which all tend in up and down and exaggerated directions. Ladies must be tall in the modern clothes, and tall without the slightest interruption to that scheme. Even if they are short to begin with, they are still expected to wear clothes to make them long-looking in spite of themselves. And for the ladies who are really tall to begin with—why there is no end to the heights they will manage to reach with the aid of the modern dress. They must not be afraid of their own exaggerated lines, that is all. They must frankly accept the fact that they are the leaders of style and play into the hands of the dressmakers who wish to use every atom of the height which is theirs by natural birthright.

Poiret is usually noted for doing the out-of-the-way thing in the way of women's dress. He is the insurgent in the camp. And yet when you whittle it right down to the base of the situation, you find that in some ways he is the most conservative of all. One point upon which he does insist, and to which he sticks with a tenacity that is surprising, is the fact that women must have the bravest ways to do the new and the picturesque thing. He will not consent to their sinking into the mass picture in any way. He declares that every woman shall be an individual, individually dressed, and in this respect he has the quality of leading all of the other designers.

DAIRY THE DAIRY

MAKING MILK IN NEBRASKA

Figures Obtained Probably Approximate Requirements in Other Sections of West.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Here is what it costs, in labor and feed, to produce 100 pounds of market milk in eastern Nebraska: Winter, six months—concentrates, 41.2 pounds; dry roughage, 25.3 pounds; silage and other succulent roughage, 93.6 pounds; bedding, 11.1 pounds; human labor, 2 hours; horse labor, 0.06 hour; hauling and grinding concentrates, $0.016; pasture, $0.108; total costs, except depreciation on cows, $0.788; depreciation on cows, $0.018.

Summer six months—Concentrates, 11 pounds; hauling and grinding concentrates, $0.004; dry roughage, 51.2 pounds; silage and other succulent roughage, 29.3 pounds; pasture, $0.633; human labor, 1.9 hours; horse labor, 0.08 hours; total costs except depreciation on cows, $0.805; depreciation on cows, $0.084.

The work of determining the cost of producing milk in this section covers two one-year periods. It was begun by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the department of dairy husbandry of the University of Nebraska, in September, 1917, discontinued at the end of the first year, and resumed in September, 1919. The figures reported were based on actual records obtained by regular monthly visits of 24 hours each to eight farms for two years, and to 22 other farms for one year.

The requirements for keeping the average cow one year were: Concentrates, 1,529 pounds; hauling and grinding concentrates, $0.090; dry roughage, 4,275 pounds; silage and other succulent roughage, 3,393 pounds; pasture, $22.01; bedding, 340 pounds; human labor, 118.6 hours; horse labor, 3.2 hours; other costs except depreciation on cows, $36.35; depreciation on cows, $4.78.

During the first winter and summer the average incomes from milk were not sufficient to meet the average costs. In the second year the incomes were above the average costs in both seasons. The greater percentage of the year's income was received in the winter, but the feed, pasture and bedding costs exceeded the summer costs.

Feed for Dairy Cows Should Be Carefully Weighed.

by a greater percentage than the winter receipts exceeded the summer receipts.

Although the figures obtained show what was required to produce milk for the Omaha market under the system of dairy management found in the section studied, and probably approximate the requirements in similar localities, it is pointed out by the department that they, of course, do not apply to dairying in sections where different conditions and methods of management prevail.

Additional details of the record and work are contained in department Bulletin 972, "Unit Requirements for Producing Market Milk in Eastern Nebraska," recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Copies of the bulletin may be had by addressing a request to the department at Washington, D. C.

MOLD REPORTED IN SILAGE

Trouble Occurs Only Where Air Is Present, Generally Caused by Lack of Water.

The usual number of complaints are coming in regarding the presence of mold in silage. Mold can grow only when air is present. Air generally gets in as the result of the silage being too dry when put into the silo. If water was added, not enough was used. Poor packing may cause the same trouble. Mold around the doors and against the wall is the result of poor construction of the silo which allows air to enter. Nothing can be done now to remedy the condition. At the next filling time special care should be taken to see that the corn contains enough moisture and that it is well tramped. It is always safest to reject moldy silage, especially for horses and sheep, although for cattle there seems to be little danger. C. H. Fokes, chief of the division of dairy husbandry, University Farm.

AGED MAN WOULD SEE WORLD

Turkish Methusalem, at 146, Refuses to Consider Himself as Too Old to Travel.

A modern Methusalem, reputed to be the oldest man on earth, has started out to see the world before he gets "too old to travel." Zora Mehmed, one hundred and forty-six years old, of Constantinople has arrived in Paris, Zora, who has been working pretty consistently for 140 years, is in excellent health and boasts of being able to carry a 200-pound weight. Zora produces identification papers to prove he was born in 1775, and he refers to his closest competitor for longevity honors, a Sioux Indian in the United States, aged one hundred and thirty-seven years, as "a mere boy." Zora has a son ninety-five years old, and he has no many descendants that he long ago lost count.

The aged Turk is a skeptic on the subject of matrimony. Having tried the experience four times, he says he speaks with a certain amount of authority.

"Women," said Zora, shaking his head bitterly, "women, they may seem as sweet as the rose down, but, verily, they are more often like thorns, hidden only by a rose exterior."

Nose-Tip Vaccination.

The aged Japanese statesman had a little, saucer-shaped scar on the tip of his nose.

"All we Japanese of the older generation have this scar," he said. "It's our vaccination mark."

"Memory?"

"Yes, it's our vaccination mark. In the old days, when compulsory vaccination first came in, we vaccinated everybody on the tip of the nose. Why? Well, because it was a good place—no movement there, you see, to rub off the seal. Also because a vaccination mark on the nose tip was easily identified by the medical officer—no need to take off half your clothes in order to prove that you'd been vaccinated."

"Yes, nose-tip vaccination had its good points, but before the modern hankering after beauty it had to go, just as knee vaccination is going, here in the western world, before the one-piece bathing dress and the stocking rolled down to the top of the calf."

New United States Hospitals.

Before the year ended the United States public health service had added three more hospitals to the fourteen it had opened since January 1 last. It is also preparing nine other hospitals, four of which will probably be opened by May 1 and the others a little later. All of these hospitals have either been leased from private owners or taken over from the army or the navy, the new construction authorized by congress at the extra session not yet being well under way.

Hospitals planned to be opened for 1922 include the tuberculosis hospitals at beautiful Dawson Springs, Ky.; Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Rutland, Mass., with a total of 820 beds; the general hospitals at Fort Walla Walla, Wash., and at Norfolk, Va., with a total of 1,240 beds, and the neuropsychiatric hospital in the Bronx, New York city, with 1,000 beds.

"Alloy."

The word "alloy" is derived from a literal Anglicization of the French phrase "a la loi"—"according to law." The phrase was transported across the channel in connection with gold or silver reduced in value by admixture with inferior metals in accordance with regulations established according to the law, but the English insisted on pronouncing the French "loi" as if it were spelled "loy" and finally dropped the second syllable entirely, thus coining the word "alloy."

Unexpected.

"How is it with you and Mr. Windy, Anna? Did you explain everything to him? You told him about your rich aunt, of course; and after that what followed?" "He eloped with her!"—Gertie Der Brummer.

Tribute and Tax.

Tribute is money, commodity of value or service rendered by one ruler or state to another in token of submission, while taxes are financial burdens imposed by a state upon its own subjects. In early times there was not this distinction, for, under the feudal system especially, taxation, tribute and rent were often identical.

The Way of the World.

The world usually gushes a man the way he makes up his mind to go. If going up, they push him up; if going down, they push him down—gravitation, however, making the speed greater on the decline.—George Francis Train.

Marks of Distinction.

To be distinctive one does not use expensive clothing. A face without mental poise, a well-groomed body, married with grace and dignity, is an aristocracy. Every woman can be attractive, no matter what her features may be.

THE FREEMAN'S CENT-A-WORD ADLETS SAVE MONEY, TIME AND WORRIMENT—PUT YOUR "WANTS" UP TO THE LITTLE HUSTLERS

New Bridge Over Hudson Near Peekskill Will Solve Big Motor Transit Problem

Map of site and approaches to the new Bear Mountain Hudson River bridge for automobiles and pedestrians which will revolutionize the possibilities of cross state motor travel.

WORKERS of pleasure automobiles as well as shippers by motor truck are much interested in the early completion of the new bridge to be built across the Hudson River at Bear Mountain Park connecting the upper parts of Rockland and Westchester counties. This structure, which is of the suspension type, will be the only pedestrian and motor car bridge across the Hudson south of Albany and will solve a transportation problem that has been a serious one.

At present there is no way to get across the Hudson except by ferries which make long waits necessary for those desiring to go in either direction. The Bear Mountain Hudson River bridge, crossing the river near Peekskill about 40 miles north of the Grand Central Station, New York City, will connect the great trunk highways on both sides of the river. Direct passage from central and western New York to Boston will be possible without a long and tiresome trip down through New York City. The southern tier and northern and western parts of the state will benefit particularly from the new bridge.

The new structure will be erected by the Terry and Trench Company, Inc., engineers and contractors, who built the Kingston Bridge for the state and are building also of the Troy and Cohoes Bridges. The cost, together with the approaches connecting the structure with trunk highways at either end, will be about $5,000,000. It is expected that the bridge will be complete in two years.

The bill presented to the legislature providing for the bridge gives the state the privilege of taking over the structure at any time on the payment of sums that decrease with the passage of years. The bridge becomes state property automatically without cost at the end of thirty years. It will be supported by a moderate scale of tolls until such time as the state takes it over.

The Terry and Trench Co., Inc., is among the best known construction firms in the country. It has erected many of the biggest of New York City's buildings and viaducts, built the steel work in the Grand Central Terminal, most of the Boston elevated railroads, steel work in the New York subway, three of the present bridges along the Hudson, and conducted many other big operations.

REFORESTING ULSTER LAND

Over Half Million Trees Planted on 65 Patches of Denuded Land in County—Movement Fast Growing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 11.—Sixty-five plantations with a total of 557,375 trees have been set out in Ulster county since the beginning of the movement for the reforestation of idle and denuded lands, according to figures compiled by the conservation commission. These are exclusive of a state plantation of 20,000 at the Eastern New York Reformatory at Napanoch. In addition to the plantations established by individuals, reforestation operations have been conducted by the Saugerties water commission, Catskill Mountain Improvement Co., the board of public works of Kingston, the New York and Ontario Railroad, the Raymond Riordan School and the Yama Farms.

All through the state the reforestation of idle lands is receiving more attention this year than ever before as shown by inquiries and applications for trees that are being received by the conservation commission not only from individuals but also from cities and villages, fish and game clubs, school districts, water works companies, lumber companies, Boy Scouts and other organizations.

The conservation commission is now growing in its nurseries between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 trees which it is distributing and planting at the rate of nearly 10,000,000 a year and this output will be increased to 15,000,000 a year as soon as conditions will permit in order to keep pace with the growing demand.

Following is a list of applications for trees for Ulster county which have been filed by the conservation commission since the reforestation movement began:

WARREN'S VICTROLA RECORDS NOW RANK IN NUMBERS.

Buckley & Schryver of Foxhall avenue have just completed the construction and placing of a new set of record holders for the victrola department of Charles A. Warren's sporting goods store. This new equipment now makes the keeping of the largest Victor record stock possible and the finding of records three times as quick as formerly, and together with the large and complete record stock always carried by Mr. Warren makes his stock the largest along the Hudson river.

Variety Supper.

The Queen Esther Circle of the St. James Methodist Church will serve a "variety supper" in the dining room of the church on Wednesday evening from half past five until 8 o'clock. There will be something unique in the way of menu, which will be quite up to the standards set by the ladies of St. James. Tickets should be secured ahead of time if this be possible.

Jackson's "Kitchen Cabinet." "The kitchen cabinet" was a name given to a group of political advisers of President Jackson. They occupied no official positions, but were consulted by the President as private citizens. The principal members of this "cabinet" were Amos Kendall, William B. Lewis, Isaac Hill, Duff Green and Francis P. Blair. It was the custom of these unofficial advisers, whenever they called upon the President, to go in by the back door to avoid observation—hence the sobriquet of "kitchen cabinet" which is said to have originated among the Whigs.

Novelty for Jerusalem.

Jerusalem has passed through a siege and war without being damaged by the invaders or the besieged, for the first time in the history of the city. The British airplanes flew over the Holy city frequently to observe the movements of the Turkish forces, but no bombs were dropped on the historical buildings by order of General Allenby, the commander-in-chief. It was the eighteenth time the place had been captured since the city was built.

T. A. EDISON, 75, BUSY AS EVER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
West Orange, N. J., Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison celebrated his 75th birthday today by announcing that that world is on the threshold of a great inventive era, and that America soon will enjoy a long period of prosperity.

"We soon shall be able to hear ants talk," he announced as he explained that he was working to improve the amplifier that spreads broadcast radio messages.

Mr. Edison shamelessly reported for work 19 minutes late today after all his employees had punched the clock.

"It shan't happen again," he apologized to the newspaper men when he told them of his delinquency.

Today's tardiness, however, is offset by the fact that he worked all Monday and Wednesday nights, until 1 a. m. Thursday morning, besides putting in his regular day shift of ten hours or so in each twenty-four.

CUSTOMERS BUY UP GAS CO. BONDS

Not Enough To Go Around—Money Sought For Local Betterments—Search For Causes of Complaint To Go On.

The following is an interview given out at the office of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company:

The Kingston Gas and Electric Company announces that the entire issue of $200,000 bonds has been sold. As a matter of fact, before the sale could be stopped, more applications came in than could be filled. There will, therefore, be some disappointment among those investors who missed the opportunity of participating in this issue.

It was pointed out in the advertisements that the money from the sale of these bonds will be used locally to provide and to insure good and adequate service to the company's customers.

In its application to the commission, the company set forth that a portion of the proceeds from the sale of these bonds would be used to repay advances made by customers for service extensions. These refunds amounting to over $20,000, most of which was in the city of Kingston, have already been paid by the company with interest, although technically they were not compelled to make them at the time.

But the most interesting feature of this bond sale lies in the fact that the management of the company used it as an opportunity to make the acquaintance of its customers. If necessary, the bonds could have been sold elsewhere, but the company wanted to know what its patrons were thinking about, whether they had any old grievances and if the company could serve them better. Accordingly, the employees in every department were organized for a house-to-house canvass, which started on January 16th. A card for each customer, both gas and electric, was made out, giving the name and address, and careful instructions were issued to every canvasser to note on the cards any information given by customers that would aid the management in giving better service to the public, and in remedying any cause of complaint from the individual consumer.

Just as rapidly as circumstances have permitted the complaints that could be remedied now, have been taken care of.

This canvass will be continued and when completed, the information will be tabulated and the management will then have reliable and not hearsay information upon which to build better service.

It was hoped that this canvass would be completed before all of the bonds were sold for the reason that customers generally will take more time to discuss matters with a company representative who calls for the first time, with the bond offer as an introduction. So far only about 10 per cent of the customers have been canvassed but the plan will be carried out of visiting every customer, in order to invite his constructive criticism or helpful suggestions.

Of course, not every employee could participate in the canvass directly, but every one has had some share in the work and it is interesting to find that nearly all of those who conducted the sales of the bonds sold one or more bonds to themselves before they went out to offer them to customers.

Generally speaking the officers of the company are encouraged by the reports that have come in, for these go to show what we all like to believe and that is, nearly every person can be depended upon to be honest and fair if appealed to on reasonable grounds. The company asked for the confidence of the public. The result of the bond sale has proven that the public is willing to answer. We now expect to prove that mutual advantages will accrue.

He Was the "Goat."

One day last spring I attended a circus, and while looking for my seat prior to the start of the show, I chanced to walk through the arena. A young "blonde" lady came to me and asked me where the animals were on exhibition. As I pointed the correct directions she fell in a faint, right into my arms. I was badly confused and started to carry her to one of the platforms in the center of the immense coliseum. Then I heard roars of loud laughter. I dropped her and started to fan her with my hat, when, with all eyes on me, I realized that the young "lady" was a clown who had been amusing the audience before the start of the regular show and I was the "goat."—Kkchaage.

Horseshoe From the Prince.

Before embarking for India the prince of Wales visited the castle of Oakham in Rutland, says an English exchange.

And following an old tradition he had to pay the tithe.

This tradition, over 300 years old, is one of the most curious. It imposes upon the visitor of note—for whom alone the gates are opened—the obligation to offer a horseshoe.

The prince of Wales did not ignore this custom. His horseshoe was placed above the first that figured in the collection, and which was received from the hands of Queen Elizabeth.

Artists in Jap Cabinet.

Japanese cabinet members are artists and their paintings and writings brought good prices at a recent auction by the Tokyo Fine Arts club.

The late Premier Hara painted three pictures which sold for $700, and another group of four brought approximately $800. Writings of Prince Salojini brought $200. Mr. Noda, minister of communications, painted a chrysanthemum and an orchid, while Mr. Tokunomi, the home minister wrote a poem.—Dearborn Independent.

BANK STOCK TAX IS UPHELD

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 11.—Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis today upheld the constitutionality of the law allowing the city to impose a tax of 1 per cent upon the assessed value of the stock of state and national banks. Unless the appellate court reverses this decision, the city will retain millions of dollars collected from the banks under protest last December.

MEN BIBLE STUDENTS

PROVE CAPABLE COOKS

The Men's Bible Class of the Fair Street Reformed Church gave their annual supper Friday evening to the women folks of the church. The entire meal was prepared by the men and even the dishes were washed and the room set to rights by the men. Needless to say the women enjoyed a real treat. One hundred and seventy persons were served. The boys of the church of the Church of the Comforter furnished the music and the singing was led by Henry Darrow. William Van Riten and Henry Woodsey were called upon for solo singing. The fact that their music had been forgotten at home they of the church are waiting for solos at some future date from both of these artists. During the program which followed the dinner Mrs. Weeks and Mrs. Leskie sang a duet, "Humming."

SHOWS ONE'S LOVE CAPACITY

"Telephones" May Be Used in the Future to Prevent Possibility of Unhappy Marriage.

One of the innumerable uses to which the "telephones," an invention announced by the Society of Electrical Development, may be placed is that of preventing unhappy marriages.

The inventor himself, name not disclosed, believes that if it can be adjusted over the heart of the girl, her doubt-torn swim will be able to tell whether she is telling the truth or not. He had not invented a way of making the girl put this lie detector on.

The "telephones" records the breathing and heart beats. It magnifies irregularities caused by emotions and is regarded by criminologists as a sure method of catching lying witnesses. The lover suggestion is put forward by the inventor merely as an example of what science could do if permitted.

"When John grows doubtful of the reality of Joan's love for him," he says in his dry, academic way, "he can satisfy himself by having her heart suitors measured."

If the girl puts up a struggle at a suggestion that she wear this harness during an evening of courtship, John may be sure that he is going to get several hours of lies. In that case there is nothing to do but doubt everything she says. Thus will unhappy marriages be prevented.

REMINDER OF MIDDLE AGES

English Clergyman Likely Will Have to Stand Trial on the Charge of Heresy.

Charges of heresy—with the possibility that England will have an ecclesiastical trial such as it has not known since the Middle Ages—have been filed against the Rev. H. D. A. Major, principal of Ripon hall, a theological institute in Oxford, by the Rev. C. E. Douglas. Further action rests with the bishop of Oxford, with whom the charges have been placed.

The action grew out of an article by the Rev. Mr. Major, in which he said that the resurrection of Christ was a spiritual but not a physical happening. The Rev. Mr. Douglas charges him with "publishing doctrine contrary to the teachings of crowds and of holy scripture," and also of importing into the Christian religion the teachings of the eastern mystic, "Laddha."

The Rev. Mr. Major holds no benefice, so the case can not be tried through the bishops' court. The procedure which must be followed is the old procedure by inquisition. Under this the bishop having received the information appoints "an inquisition of priests" to hear testimony.

The Rev. Mr. Major, since the filing of the charges, has announced he will defend his position.

It Can't Be Done.

Right—Tommy Gibbons.

Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul, and Harry Greb, Pittsburgh boxer, regarded as two of the country's foremost light heavyweights, have been matched for a fifteen round bout in Madison Square Garden, New York city, March 13.

The winner is scheduled to battle Jack Dempsey for his world's title. It is the most important match made since the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

It is announced that the men will clash in the feature bout of a card which Promoter Tex Rickard is conducting for the New York Milk Fund.

Several times before it was reported that they were matched to battle, but a bout between them never materialized.

Gibbons was matched for a bout here against Georges Carpentier, world's light-heavyweight champion, but this contest was abandoned.

Sled Trains Are Used by American Relief Administration Workers in Russia to Deliver Food to Starving

THIS is the way American food for starving Russians is delivered in certain sections of the famine-stricken country.

The picture was taken upon the arrival of the first American Relief Administration transport at Sterletsk, capital of the Bashkir Republic. The sled train is laden with food, drawn many miles from the nearest railroad station, to be distributed among the famished children through the ARA feeding stations established there.

Cables tell of the joyful reception which this relief party met upon arrival at Sterletsk. The hungry inhabitants were in desperate straits as they are pretty much throughout the Volga Valley section, and this American food was a God-send. Children, flanked about the sled-loads of supplies and assisted in unloading and guarding the treasured contents, until the sleds were set and distribution begun.

The Bashkir Republic is one of the hardest hit among those which felt the heavy hand of starvation, following the great drought. The ARA food time in getting food to many of the remote places in this republic, sending out relief parties from Sterletsk, which is the principal supply station in the Bashkir Republic.

The condition of the natives there continues to be serious. In many districts there is no food whatever. Substitutes, when they can be found, are used. There have been prone to induce illness in most cases. Chronic dysentery and malnutrition have weakened the children to a pitiable extent. Deaths through starvation have been common. Many in an effort to flee the stricken section, have died by the roadside while conducting a futile search for food. Those who remained, principally because they could not find ways and means to leave, had to await the arrival of food provided through the generosity of the American people. The work of relieving the situation due to the shortage of food is being Metaphysics.

The second great discovery of the Greek thinkers was metaphysics. Nowadays metaphysics is revered by some as our noblest effort to reach the highest truth, and scorned by others as the silliest of wild goose chases. I am inclined to rate it, like smoking, as a highly gratifying indulgence to those who like it, and as indulgence to, relatively innocent.—Prof. J. H. Robinson, in "Mind-in-the-Making."

A Friendly Tip.

A young woman tells of dining out and being seated next to the six-year-old daughter of the house. When her mother left the table for a moment the little one leaned toward their guest and said in a low, admonitory tone, "Now, do be careful, 'cause these are our very best table glasses."—Boston Transcript.

evening at one of the uptown theaters.Plans for the Prisma party, February 18 at 8 o'clock, have reached completion and in a recent senior meeting the invitation to attend this affair was extended to all of the boys of the class. The first two hours of the evening will be spent in progressive games in the lunch room, after which refreshments will be served. And then the last hour will be spent in the gymnasium which is to be appropriately decorated for the occasion.Carnations will be sold St. Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day by the Prisma girls for which a canvass of the roll call rooms was made last week in order to determine the amount needed.Yanki San is progressing rapidly each day and the costumes for the various players have been ordered.
The opera will be given next Friday evening, the 17th, at 8 o'clock.
A meeting of the Letter Club was held Thursday afternoon at which the constitution as prepared by the committee of formation was accepted. Already things are being accomplished by the club which has one of its duties the running down of people who are wearing letters without being properly entitled to them and it will behoove any one to persist in the practice.A Lincoln program was given in the Friday morning assembly by four Seniors. The following Seniors delivered anecdotes and poems descriptive of his generous character. Miss Gladys Reynolds, Miss Barnovitz, Miss Bernadette Whelan and Anderson. A glowing account of the prospects of Yanki San was given by Maurice Goethens. Due to a jugh-ing of names the name of Miss Lydia Davis, instead of the name of Miss Sarah Davis should appear in the cast under the Seven Noses of Old Japan.A "pop" meeting was held Friday afternoon in the auditorium by the students in order to arouse some latent school spirit for the evening's games and the basketball management is most grateful to the students for the loyal support shown.The first games of inter-class basketball were played Friday afternoon and the Freshmen pulled big in both trays. The Freshman girls crushed the Senior girls by the score of 5 to 8, and the Freshman boys bambuzzed the Juniors by a score worth 11 to 33.The scores.

TEAMS WINBoys Beat Newburgh 25-16 and Girls' Team From Same Place 29-
25—Both Fast, Clean Games.Friday evening the Kingston High School Varsity won a double header. The boys won over the Newburgh Varsity lads with a nine point lead and a final tally of 25 to 16.
The girls won with a six point lead and a total of 29 to 23.Both games were all to be desired from every angle. The display of school spirit on the part of both institutions was exceedingly strong.
The Newburgh Academy boys traveled here with a yell squad over one hundred strong and at the moment of their arrival the cheering sections vied with each other in leading this moral support to their teams. The Newburgh men have a fine cheer leader in James Fitz-Gerald, who is aided by a nine year old chap who travels under the caption of Mazzulla.But the display of real basketball shown to the fans by the K. H. S.
Varsity was an amazing pick-up from the desultory showings in the past. By losing the game the Newburgh lads saw their chance for the state championship go a-kimberling.
Last week the Newburghs defeated the Poughkeepsie high team by a score of 31 to 26 at Newburgh and if the brand of basketball that was shown last night had been in evidence, the Poughkeepsie played here the tale of a hard luck would have been switched about. The Newburgh fellows have been practicing the past week under the guidance of their captain, Bellinger, because of the sudden sickness of Coach Schwartz at Utica. "Lanky" Masterson was dragged from a sick bed to play in the game and he scored 8 points for his five.Anderson lived up to his name of being the fastest guard in this section of the state. He was everywhere, tearing after his opponent like fire after a gasoline trail he snatched the passes and made ineffective several long-court shots of the Newburgh, and had the team been minus his presence much would have been lacking. Tommy Rowland was the spectacular shooter of the evening and he landed his shots from nearly every possible position on the floor; his court work and his passwork also practically perfect. Vogt outjumped Masterston at nearly every toss-up and while he did not score any points it was his energetic following of his passes that made it possible for the forwards to get their points.
Bott was the prime foul-shooter of the game and out of a possible 15 points from the complimentary he totalled 11. It would be impossible to find a player that sticks closer to his opponent without fouling him than Bott. Dressel is a clever guardsman and it seems that at this position he would be much more effective than at a forward's post, for more than one attempted quick pass was knocked into failure by his alertness. However, it would be practically impossible to find a better all-around player than "Whitey" Schmidt, the game "Hanvey" of the high school court, for he is aggressive and he does not hesitate to snatch the ball from the tumbling fingers of an adversary at the slightest provocation. Bob Correagan was substituted during the progress of the game and he played hard and well until he was replaced again by the regular filler of the position that he was holding.Throughout the evening the Newburgh lads were at a loss to get near their basket and as they were somewhat unaccustomed to the court, of which the ceiling hangs quite low, the high arching shots which they attempted were of no avail.At the end of the first quarter the score stood 4 all, the result of the hawk-eyed shooting of the teams. toul shooters. Then in the second quarter Anderson made the first field goal of the evening and Rowland, following suit, made the second field goal. At the end of the first half the score stood 19 to 5 with the locals lighting the way. In the second half the playing was rife with excitement as each team brought its score within equal distance of the others but in the last quarter the superiority of the Kingston boys began to assert itself and as a last result the Newburgh leader put "Ike" McKeever in the scrimmage. But it was too late and as Timer Davis blew vigorously on his horn the ball was found in the hands of the locals, who were juggling it about to each other as if it were too hot to hold.The bulwark of strength for the Newburghs were Masterston, Taylor and O'Callaghan, not only in their point scoring but in their fine defensive work as well.
It was quite a surprise to the old football fans to see Mr. Snively refereeing the game and it may be said that his decisions were so justly rendered as to call no querulous remonstrations from the bleachers or the contestants. At the finish of the game Mr. Snively declared that it was one of the cleanest and fastest games that he has thus far refereed.
The girls' game was one grand struggle following in the footsteps of another and it was a combination of football and wrestling, with a little basketball interspersed. The reason to which the girls were keyed made possible the pleasing aspects of the game, for so strenuously did the guards fulfill their allotted task that no points were given away. According to agreement Miss Anne Byrnes out-pun-ned any one else with a grand finale of 9 field baskets. Miss Rodgers was not far in the rear with a total of 11 points being disclosed in the final inventory. Hilda Walker was shoulders, neck and head above them all and from the pinnacle of her advantageous height she was enabled to pounce many well-intended passes of the Newburgh players under her thumbs and as a result the final tally was reached. The Misses Van Vleet and McLaughlin also cling like leeches to the first opponents that happened their way.
Had the Newburgh Academy girls left the Misses Cummings and Byrde at home and would have been the tale of woe, since they scored 13 and 10 points respectively. Miss Smith,
